■ Market commentary

Growing political uncertainty in Europe during April threatened to take the shine off last quarter's gains. Dutch Prime Minister Mark Rutte's resignation on the last day of the month pitched another core Eurozone government into confusion, whilst in France investors readied themselves for the likelihood (now proven reality) of a change of leadership. Global equities suffered their first down month in 2012 last month, as the global aggregate dipped by 0.5% in euro terms. Global government bonds, in contrast, rallied by 2.2%, following gains by Gilts, US Treasuries and Japanese government bonds. Economic data has softened in recent months, although the outlook for global growth still remains evenly balanced. US first quarter growth disappointed forecasters, rising by 2.2% (annualised), whilst April's ADP employment report similarly underperformed consensus expectations. The ISM manufacturing index, however, continues to provide an area of strength, helping to allay fears over an apparent seasonal bias in the data, with strong releases at the start of the calendar year giving way to more depressed levels of activity from then on. Whilst austerity is putting pressure on growth in Europe, China's official manufacturing PMI rose for the fifth month in a row in April. Companies continue to make money in this environment. As we approach the end of earnings season in the US, 69% and 71% of S&P 500 companies have beaten sales targets and earnings per share targets respectively, on par with the strongest earnings season since the second quarter of 2010.

The Harmony EUR Balanced fund outperformed its benchmark in April with a return of 0.1% (net of all fees) compared to -0.6% for the reference index. April proved to be a mixed month for the equity markets, which began poorly on the back of a difficult end to March before consolidating through the middle of the month. Overall perceived 'riskier' assets proved to be less resilient than conventional 'safe havens' such as government securities and it was this return differential, combined with the fund's strategic positioning away from sovereign debt, which impacted relative performance. Overall, the Harmony EUR Balanced fund is positioned for a low (but positive) growth environment, and under these conditions the portfolio's underweight to government debt is expected to benefit performance through the cycle. In the short term, however, when markets are impacted by a degree of risk aversion, this positioning will not aid relative performance. In view of the more uncertain short term outlook, the equity weighting in the portfolio was reduced slightly at the start of the period, with the proceeds reinvested in fixed income assets. Within the fixed income portion of the portfolio, use is made of strategic, investment grade, convertible and high yield mandates. From a manager selection perspective the Momentum IF Global Equity fund marginally outperformed its reference index during April. The portfolio's earnings-acceleration driven managers contributed positively over the period, to offset the negative impact of the deep value manager who struggled during what proved to be a difficult month for their style. The duration position of the Old Mutual Global Bond fund acted as a headwind to performance in April, as the fund lagged the returns of both European government debt and the global investment grade bond index. The manager is able to take negative duration positions in the portfolio in order to express his bearish outlook on government bond valuations in the current cycle.
