■ Market commentary

Equities continued to rally during August, in anticipation of further intervention from policymakers on both sides of the Atlantic, alongside tentative signs of an improvement in the underlying economic data. In the US, latest economic releases generally exceeded expectations, with positive news from the labour market, the housing market and manufacturers. Nonetheless, the headline unemployment rate remains above the level at which the Federal Reserve (Fed) can be expected to consider exiting its current monetary policy stance. In Europe, output continues to contract, although data has begun to move back in line with market expectations. Eurozone gross domestic product (GDP) contracted by 0.2% in the second quarter, despite growth of 0.3% in Germany. The Fed has indicated its willingness to provide additional monetary stimulus, highlighting the current state of the US labour market. Ben Bernanke stopped short of committing to further quantitative easing during his speech at Jackson Hole at the end of the month, but the Fed Chairman made clear that he believes the non-traditional measures employed by the bank over the past five years have been successful. Higher risk assets generally responded positively to the prospect of further intervention from central banks during August, as equities, credit and commodities all posted gains. Safe haven government bonds saw their yields rise modestly, whereas peripheral European government bond yields fell. Perhaps the biggest surprise was the 10% rise in the oil price, taking Brent crude to USD 115 compared with USD 90 at the end of June. The latest moves appear to have been caused by fears over future supply emanating from the Middle East.

Against a backdrop of reasonable equity returns following on from a positive July, the Harmony USD Balanced fund performed in line with its benchmark index, with a return of 1.0% in US dollar terms. Over the month, the contribution from asset allocation to relative performance was positive. The portfolio manager has reduced the equity holding to mildly underweight, following the decent run enjoyed by equities since hitting their most recent bottom in June. Despite this move, the fund remains sensitive to the performance of the equity markets through its credit holdings. The fund is now slightly underweight equity, in mind of the possibility of a short term correction in markets. The portfolio manager does not consider equities to be overly expensive however, and if the market drops back it is likely that the equity position will be topped up. The fund's underweight to global government bonds aided relative performance during August, as these assets underperformed equities, despite posting positive returns. Within the fixed income portion of the portfolio use is made of strategic, investment grade, convertible and high yield mandates. Overall, the fund is positioned for a low (but positive) growth environment, and under these conditions the long-held strategic underweight to government debt is expected to benefit performance through the cycle.

From a manager selection perspective the Yacktman fund is managed by Yacktman Asset Management in Texas, a dedicated US equity manager who implements a conservative, quality-value approach. The investment philosophy focuses on gaining exposure to high quality companies and should therefore be able to provide good downside protection. The manager has also demonstrated the ability and willingness to shift the portfolio towards lower quality stocks when value opportunities arise. The fund rose by 2.0% in August and was broadly in line with the benchmark. The fund's stock selection within the IT sector benefited performance, however this was largely offset by its large allocation to cash in what proved to be a rising market. Due to the manager's defensive positioning the fund has struggled to keep up in a relatively strong market year to date and has lagged the S&P 500 index by over 5%.
