■ Manager commentary

The decision was taken to leave target asset allocation unchanged in March, but one change was made to the underlying manager selection. Within the global equity allocation we redeemed from the American Century Global Concentrated Growth fund and used the proceeds to increase the holding in Jennison's Global Equity Opportunities fund. We were invested with American Century for over three years and continue to rate their capabilities very highly but believe the Jennison strategy has better return potential over the long term and better complements other holdings in the portfolio.

The Jennison Global Equity Opportunities fund is managed by Mark Baribeau who has invested with the same approach since 2004 and has been supported by several of the same experienced team members for many years. The team implement an aggressive growth investment approach, focusing on stocks that display high and accelerating earnings growth. The consistent style exposure their approach provides is typically complementary to more value orientated investment styles, with outperformance from aggressive growth and value styles usually being delivered in different market environments. At present top holdings include the likes of Amazon.com, Facebook and Mastercard.
